Implications of Research on the Neuroscience of Affect, Attachment, and Social Cognition

Saturday 18 May - Sunday 19 May 2013

Leading neuroscientists from Europe and the USA will once again host this unique forum exploring the latest neuroscience research with reference to treatments of mental disorders including autism, depression, personality disorders and attachment disorders.

This biannual conference attracted over 300 delegates in 2011.
There will be two separate sessions within this conference which will focus on a developmental perspective:

Session One: Neuroscience of Affect and Attachment.
Session Two: Neuroscience of Social Cognition.
