

India's Urban Transformation: from challenge to opportunity

Aromar Revi
Director, Indian Institute of Human Settlements (IIHS)

Wednesday 18th
November 2009 at 17.30

Gavin De Beer LT,
Medical Sciences &
Anatomy, Gower Street
London WC1E 6BT,
United Kingdom

Panel: Prof Edgar Pieterse (African Centre for Cities)
Prof Bish Sanyal (MIT)
Prof Yves Cabannes (DPU, UCL)
Chair: Caren Levy (Director, DPU, UCL)

IIHS will create India's first independent National Innovation University focussed on the challenges and opportunities of its urbanisation. Its academic programmes are aimed at building a new profession of urban practitioners, around a set of two dozen disciplines and practice areas central to South Asia's urban transformation.

The IIHS is committed to the creation and management of equitable, efficient, economic and sustainable urban settlements, regions and villages. It will draw upon the best available international talent, a global network of knowledge partners including leading universities like MIT and UCL, London; praxis partners like Ideo and Arup; a body of South Asia-centric knowledge and a state-of-the-art inter-disciplinary curriculum.

All welcome to attend