Think global, act together

Do you collaborate with colleagues overseas? Are you working internationally? The Global Engagement Office (GEO) can help.

The GEO team is working with Faculties, Vice-Provost offices and Professional Services staff across the university to deliver UCL’s Global Engagement Strategy.

We can provide guidance and support with:

- Partnerships and collaborations, from concept and proposal stage onwards;
- International delegations, both inbound and outbound;
- Regional advice and expertise;
- Knowledge sharing, including termly Regional Network Meetings and the UCL Global Update;

London’s Global University works with partners to achieve fair solutions to global challenges

Pro-Vice-Provosts (Regional)

The 7 PVP(R)s are UCL academics and regional experts who shape and communicate UCL’s global activities in their region. Appointed by VP(I), they:

- Chair the relevant Regional Network meetings;
- Host senior visiting international delegations;
- Act as ambassador and advocate for UCL and its Global Engagement Strategy when travelling;
- Act as a conduit for information between actual and potential international partners and the PVP(I)/VP(I).

Vice-Deans (International)

- The VD(I)s act as a point of contact within the faculty for international partnerships.

- Appointed by individual faculties, they work with the Dean to ensure that the faculty’s international engagement through strategic partnerships in teaching, research, consultancy and knowledge transfer is in line with the UCL Global Engagement Strategy and contributes to the achievement of its objectives.
