

Get involved /

Even when you're not studying, there's plenty to do, see and enjoy when you get involved. The UCL Students' Union (UCLU) runs a wide range of activities, and you can put your time to good use helping other students or the wider community.

UCL Students' Union

As a student, you are automatically a member of UCLU, the Students' Union. UCLU is a democratic, student-led organisation run by UCL students whom you have the chance to elect. UCLU provides a wide range of services to help you get the best out of your time at UCL.

// all UCL students have the opportunity to stand for and vote for officer positions at UCLU. This includes a team of full-time sabbatical officers who take a year out of their studies to run UCLU, with each receiving a salary during their term of office

// forums are an opportunity for every student to debate and discuss what UCLU does and says in various areas.

UCLU has over 200 clubs and societies, all run by students. They cover a wide variety of interests from sport and culture to arts and faith. Any UCL student can join any club or society or start their own. In fact, getting involved with a club or society is a great way for you to develop a hobby, learn new skills and make new friends.

// campaigning on an issue you care about

// getting your hands dirty at one of our environmental events, including volunteering on the London Wildlife Trust's nature reserves.

There are over 500 projects for you to choose from, so there's always something that will fit your time, availability and interests. By taking part, you'll meet new people, build new skills and get a real insight into London life.

Claire Hall, Third Year, Biochemistry BSc

I think living in London has greatly helped me develop various life skills and has given me access to such a wide range of opportunities. I've made the most of these and over the past few years I have been involved with various voluntary work placements. For example, working with women with mental health issues has helped broaden my understanding of issues relating to my BSc, and being a London Ambassador during the London 2012 Paralympic Games gave me a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity! I've met a diverse range of people being in London which has been fantastic for networking.
