

FACULTY OF LAWS /

Law

95 /

The Faculty of Laws' Moot Court in Bentham House. The Moot Court is a simulation of a real court room, where Law students can practice the art of Mooting – arguing legal problems in the form of mock cases.

UCL Laws is a vibrant community where world-renowned academics, leading lawyers and judges deliver some of the finest small group-based teaching in the UK. All our degrees are recognised by the Bar Council and the Law Society and incorporate a strong international flavour, preparing you for a diversity of legal careers.

Subject overview

Total intake 175

(2014 entry)

Applications per place 16

(2012 entry)

Research Assessment Exercise (RAE)

75% rated 4* ('world-leading') or 3* ('internationally excellent')

First career destinations (2009–2011)

- Paralegal, London Organising Committee of the Olympic and Paralympic Games (2011)
- Lawyer, Linklaters (2011)
- Paralegal, Norton Rose (2010)
- Full-time student, Bachelor of Civil Law (BCL) at the University of Oxford (2010)
- Political Researcher, UK Parliament (2009)

Contact details

Mrs Olga Thomas (Faculty Tutor)
Mrs Shibhan Attack (Admissions Officer)
e admissions.laws@ucl.ac.uk
t +44 (0)20 7679 1492/1415/1009

For more information, including programme structure, scan this code with your smartphone or visit: www.ucl.ac.uk/prospectus/law

Law LLB

UCAS: M100 • 3 years

A levels: A*AA. No specific subjects. A pass in a further subject at AS level or equivalent is required. Standard GCSE offer (see page 30), except English Language and Mathematics at grade B.

IB Diploma: 39 points. A score of 19 points in three higher level subjects, with no score lower than 5.

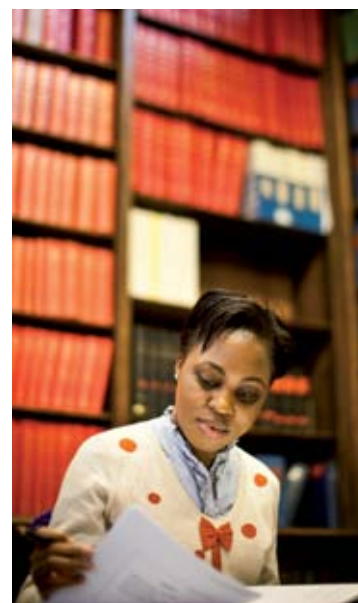

Other qualifications: see online Prospectus entry.

This three-year programme combines theory and research with practical application and skills-based training. Students may also have the opportunity, after year two, to extend their studies by a year and spend part of their degree studying abroad in the USA, Australia or Singapore. No previous knowledge of law is assumed or required.

Years one and two are made up of compulsory courses: Contract, Criminal Law, Property I and Public Law in year one and EU and Human Rights Law, Jurisprudence, Property II and Tort in year two. In year three, you will choose four subjects from a wide range of optional courses. One of them could be a research essay on a legal subject of your choice, subject to approval by the department. Progression in all years is contingent upon assessment.

National Admissions Test for Law

You are required to take the LNAT (National Admissions Test for Law) as soon as possible after submitting your UCAS application, and no later than 20 January in the same admissions cycle in which you are applying. Registration for the test closes on 15 January. Further information can be found at: www.lnat.ac.uk

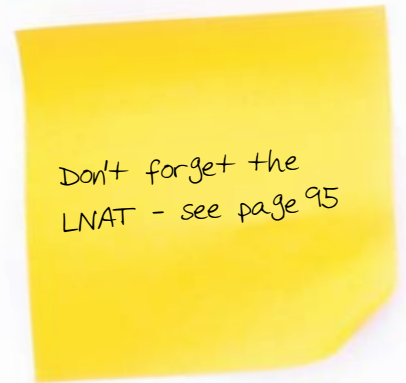

Janani Paramsothy

Law LLB

Third Year

“The UCL Laws Faculty is amazing: the teaching is done by some of the best legal minds in the world. The atmosphere, my fellow students and the general ethos all add enormously to a first-rate education. Besides, UCL is a radical university, it has been historically and it still is today, and I am proud to be here and be a part of it.

I loved learning about human rights in my second year. The Access to Justice and Community Engagement course places us with legal non-governmental organisations and charities so we can take part in huge pro bono projects. I am going to start going into Employment Tribunals with the Free Representation Unit in January 2013 and am really looking forward to it! It will be an amazing experience and we really do get to make a positive difference to someone's life.”

Law with French Law LLB

UCAS: M141 • 4 years

A levels: A*AA. French required. A pass in a further subject at AS level or equivalent is required. Standard GCSE offer (see page 30), except English Language and Mathematics at grade B.

IB Diploma: 39 points. A score of 19 points in three higher level subjects including French at grade 6, with no score lower than 5.

Other qualifications:
see online Prospectus entry.

Within a dynamic and changing European context, knowledge of another European national legal system and its law is a valuable asset, both academically and professionally. This four-year programme includes a year at the Université Paul Cézanne or Paris II (Panthéon-Assas) and leads to the award of a Bachelor of Laws degree from UCL.

Years one and two are largely identical to the three-year LLB degree, except that students must take an additional course in each year, taught in French, about French law. Year three is spent abroad at a host partner university in France. In year four, you will choose four optional courses from a wide range on offer back at UCL; one of these could be a research essay on a legal subject of your choice. Progression in all years is contingent upon assessment.

Law with German Law LLB

UCAS: M142 • 4 years

A levels: A*AA. German required. A pass in a further subject at AS level or equivalent is required. Standard GCSE offer (see page 30), except English Language and Mathematics at grade B.

IB Diploma: 39 points. A score of 19 points in three higher level subjects including German at grade 6, with no score lower than 5.

Other qualifications:
see online Prospectus entry.

Within a dynamic and changing European context, knowledge of another European national legal system and its law is a valuable asset, both academically and professionally. This four-year programme includes a year at the University of Cologne or the University of Munich, and leads to the award of a Bachelor of Laws degree from UCL.

Years one and two are largely identical to the three-year LLB degree, except that students must take an additional course in each year, taught in German, about German law. Year three is spent abroad at a host partner university in Germany. In year four, you will choose four optional courses from a wide range on offer back at UCL; one of these could be a research essay on a legal subject of your choice. Progression in all years is contingent upon assessment.

Our central London location, with its close proximity to the centre of the UK legal profession, makes UCL the ideal place to study law.

Law

Law with Hispanic Law LLB

UCAS: M144 • 4 years

A levels: A*AA. Spanish required. A pass in a further subject at AS level or equivalent is required. Standard GCSE offer (see page 30), except English Language and Mathematics at grade B.

IB Diploma: 39 points. A score of 19 points in three higher level subjects including Spanish at grade 6, with no score lower than 5.

Other qualifications:
see online Prospectus entry.

Within a dynamic and changing European context, knowledge of another European national legal system and its law is a valuable asset, both academically and professionally. This four-year programme includes a year at University Carlos III in Madrid and leads to the award of a Bachelor of Laws degree from UCL.

Years one and two are largely identical to the three-year LLB degree, except that students must take an additional course in each year, taught in Spanish, about Hispanic law. Year three is spent abroad at University Carlos III in Madrid. In year four, you will choose four optional courses from a wide range on offer back at UCL; one of these could be a research essay on a legal subject of your choice. Progression in all years is contingent upon assessment.

English and German Law LLB and Baccalaureus Legum

UCAS: M146 • 4 years

A levels: A*AA. Complete fluency in German required. A pass in a further subject at AS level or equivalent is required. Standard GCSE offer (see page 30), except English Language and Mathematics at grade B.

IB Diploma: 39 points. A score of 19 points in three higher level subjects, with no score lower than 5. Complete fluency in German is required.

Other qualifications:
see online Prospectus entry.

With growing demand in Europe for lawyers qualified in more than one jurisdiction, this four-year double degree programme involves two years of study both at UCL and in Germany, leading to the award of a Bachelor of Laws degree from UCL and the Baccalaureus Legum from the University of Cologne.

Years one and two are largely identical to the three-year LLB degree, except that students must take an additional course in each year, taught in German, about German law. Years three and four are spent at the University of Cologne studying towards the German Law degree (Baccalaureus Legum). Students may subsequently remain enrolled to take the German First State Examination if they wish. Progression in all years is contingent upon assessment.

Students in the Donaldson Reading Room, which houses a specialist Law collection

