Chapter 8: Derogations and Variations

The Slade School of Fine Art

Bachelor of Arts (BA) in Fine Art Derogations 2015/16

The following regulations apply to students enrolled on Bachelor of Arts (BA) in Fine Art programmes at UCL in addition to the main taught programme regulations detailed in the UCL Academic Manual and in particular in Chapter 1: Admissions, Registration and Student Conduct and Chapter 4: Assessment Framework for Taught Programmes.

Length of programme and programme components

1. The programme normally extends over four consecutive sessions and must be continuously followed unless special exemption is obtained.
2. The programme consists of the following components:
 - Studio Work
 - History and Theory of Art
 - Additional Study (minimum of one half course unit offered by a UCL Department)

Weighting

3. Weighting of the Course components is as follows:

Studio Work	Year 4	80%
History and Theory of Art	Year 2 Coursework	10%
	Year 3 Independent Study	10%

4. The Additional Study is taken in the second or third year. The Additional Study should be passed before students can progress to the final year. Students may not be examined in a subject for the first time in their final year. With approval, students may take, and be examined in, more than one course. The mark/s from the Additional Study is/are used at the Final Examination Board as a moderator in borderline cases, i.e. where a student's weighted average mark falls within the 1.49% margin for consideration.

Progression

5. In order to progress from the first to the second year, second to third year and third to final year, students must have achieved a satisfactory level in both the end of year Studio assessment and their History and Theory of Art coursework. Satisfactory level means satisfactory attendance and an overall pass in coursework assignments and in each assessed component (excluding the Additional Study). The Additional Study should be passed before students can progress to the final year.

Entry to final examination

6. Students are not permitted to submit work for the final degree presentation unless they have already passed the Independent Study in History and Theory of Art and completed all coursework requirements, including satisfactory attendance, plus the Additional Study.
