Note: RTPI accreditation requires you to have completed either a combination of 'spatial' and 'specialist' degrees (i.e. an accredited bachelors, giving the spatial element, plus at least an accredited diploma, giving the specialist element) or a 'combined degree', sometimes described as a 'stand-alone', 1-year MSc programme. The matrix above describes the routes available at BSP. On completion of your chosen route, you will be eligible for 'licentiate' membership of the RTPI.

 - The UR and IREP programmes are only counted as combined degrees if students pick either the modules BENVGPL5 or BENVGPL6 and BENVGTC1 as their electives.*

Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS)

The following MSc programmes (not Diplomas) are fully accredited by RICS:

- Housing Development
- International Planning
- International Real Estate and Planning
- Spatial Planning
- Sustainable Urbanism
- Urban Design and City Planning
- Urban Regeneration

Students completing these degrees are eligible for chartered membership of RICS following completion of work experience and other requirements set out by the Institution.
