INTRODUCTION

In 2017, The Bartlett expanded from its historic home in Bloomsbury to a new campus at Here East on the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park.

OUR LOCATION

The Bartlett Real Estate (BREI) is co-located within UCL's new campus at Here East on the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park.

We are situated within the repurposed broadcast building that was part of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

OUR SPACE

BREI occupies the first floor at the front of UCL at Here East. Its fully glazed façade looks out onto a shared courtyard space.

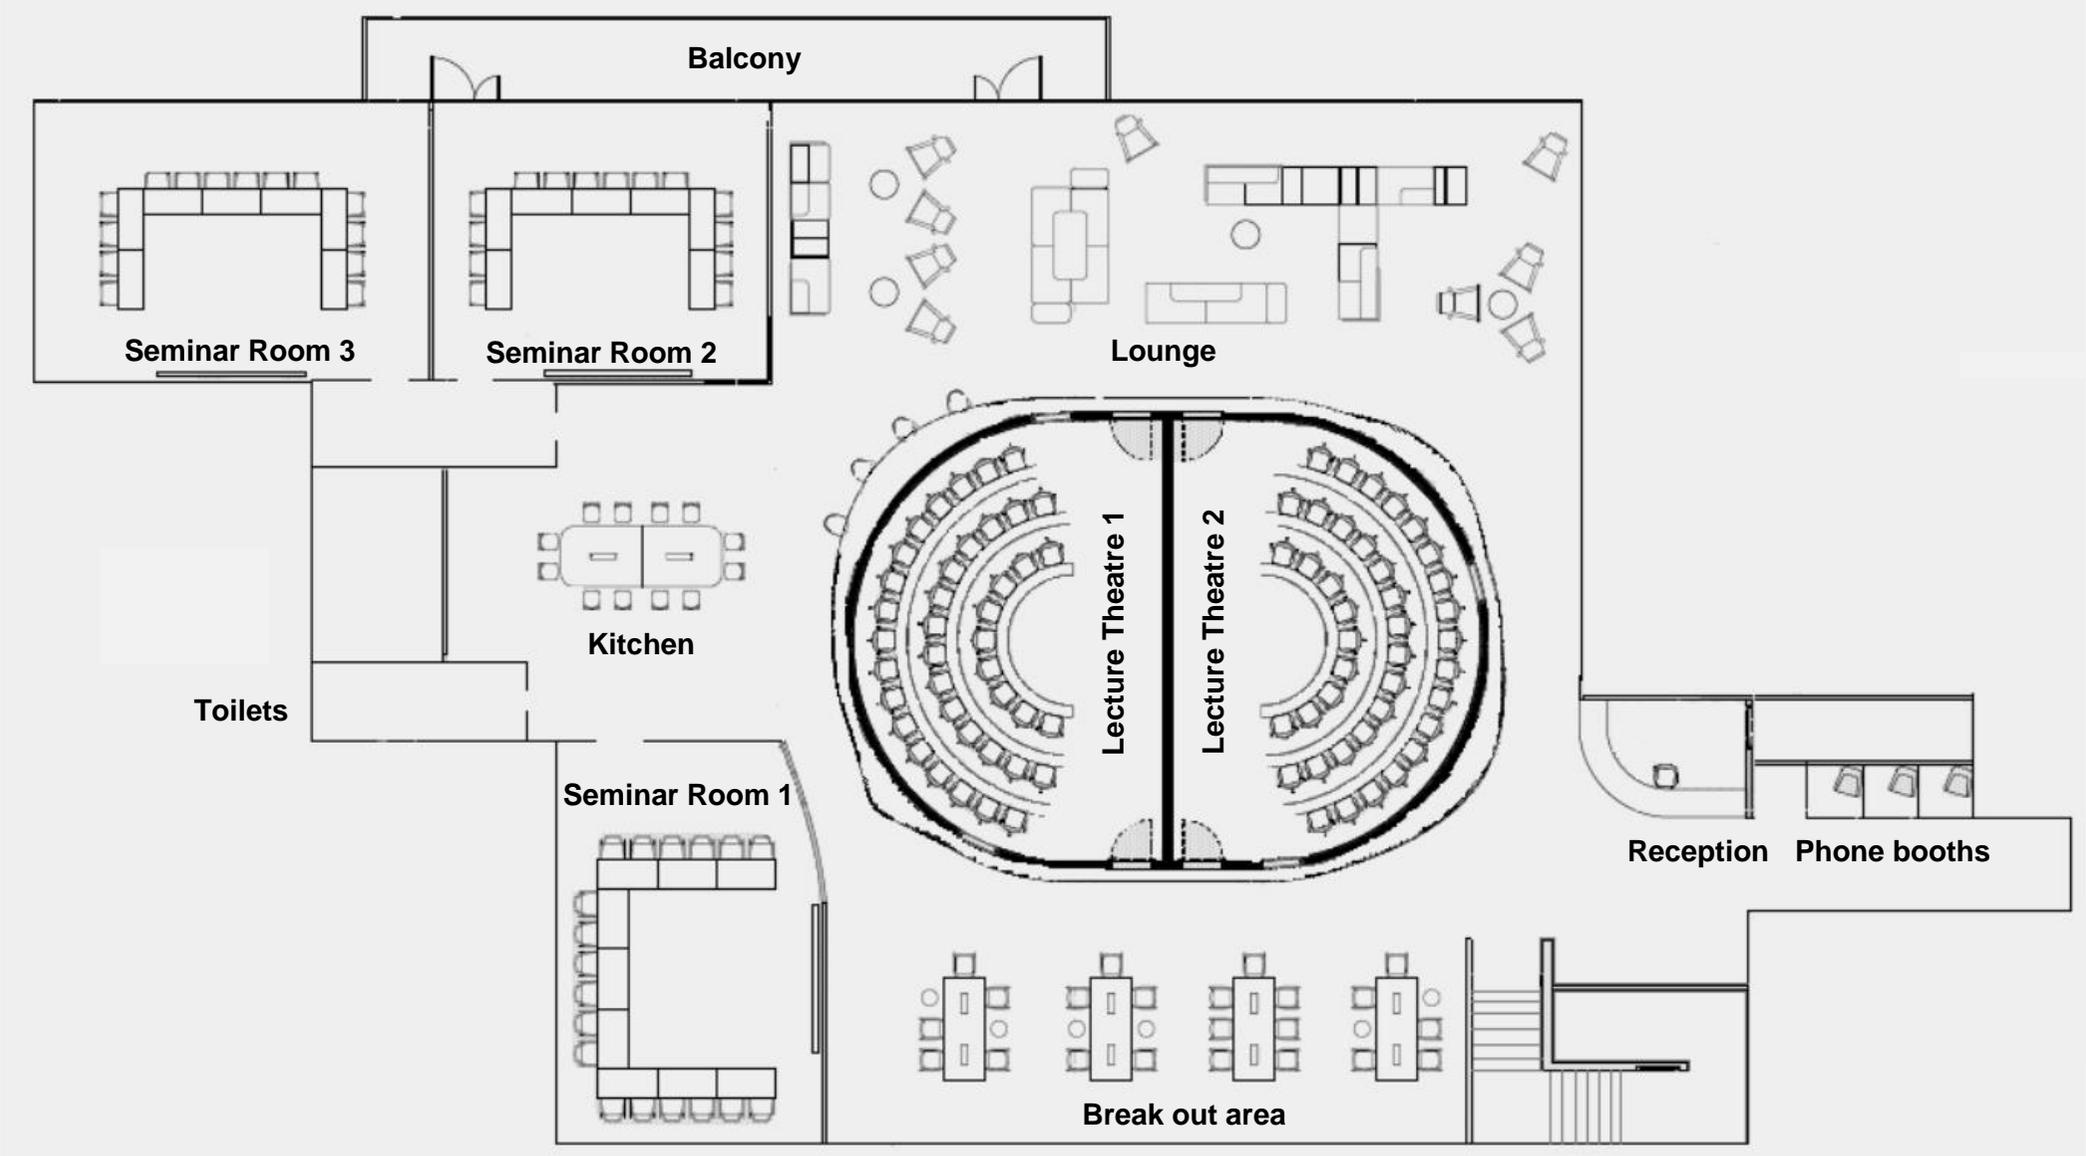

In addition to two tight-radius Harvard style lecture theatres, there are three seminar rooms, the lounge – a large social learning space, a break out area, and a large exterior balcony.

A key driver of the design of UCL's space at Here East was to create visibility across the entire facility to encourage collaboration and innovation between the various departments.

The design promotes visual connections between all areas, while paying particular attention to the quality and performance of acoustics, ventilation, lighting and thermal performance.

FLOOR PLAN

[THE LOUNGE]

THE LOUNGE

The lounge area is a vital part of the BREI space.

Its ceiling height, airiness, and size contribute to a space that encourages conversation, reflection and revitalisation.

The lounge has been designed to be highly flexible, from the informal, with plenty of soft seating, low tables and open space for networking, to the formal, accommodating seated dining, panel debates and cabaret-style presentations.

The floor-to-ceiling windows provide ample natural lighting and a full view of the courtyard below.

For a more intimate event, the roller blinds are pulled down and the pendant lights are dimmed to create the perfect atmosphere.

This versatile area can be configured to suit your space requirements.

It has a dedicated audio-visual system with a 160" display screen and 14 ceiling-mounted speakers.

From the lounge there is also access to BREI's own external large balcony overlooking the shared courtyard.

SEMINAR ROOMS

SEMINAR ROOMS

The three spacious seminar rooms have each been designed to accommodate around 20 people in boardroom style, but this capacity can vary according to the layout of the furniture.

Each room has high quality audio-visual systems and the use of mobile whiteboards, flipchart paper and pens and Wi-Fi.

Two of the rooms have floor-to-ceiling windows, while the third has an internal window into the BREI space.

The flexible lighting and blackout blinds enable the appropriate level of lighting for every event.

LECTURE THEATRES

LECTURE THEATRES

Two tight-radius Harvard-style lecture theatres provide teaching spaces that encourage discussion and debate between the speaker or panel and the audience.

The extensive use of natural wood coupled with textiles creates a warm visual environment with excellent acoustics.

Each of the seats has a power supply.

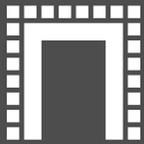

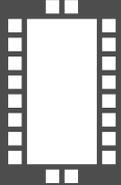

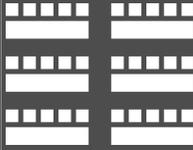

A high quality laser projector, multi-speaker installation and a dedicated display screen for the presenter provide a professional space.

One of the lecture theatres has a dedicated Cisco video conference system with multiple cameras, allowing for rich interaction with those who cannot attend in person.

The video conference system allows for multiple concurrent connections, thus enabling a lecture or seminar to become a virtual interactive space.
