

Changing B-L-U-E Thoughts

Why Are Thoughts Important?

The things that we think about ourselves, others, and the world have a big impact on the way we feel. Some children have a tendency to think negative thoughts in response to situations that may be challenging. For example, these children might think, “I’m not good at maths” when they struggle with their homework, or “Nothing ever works out for me” when they don’t get invited to a party or make a sports team. These negative thoughts make children feel even worse, and sometimes feel like giving up. It is useful to consider the clues that support or don’t support these negative thoughts. Changing overly negative thoughts (BLUE thoughts) into thoughts that are more realistic (TRUE thoughts) can improve your child’s mood and help him or her view the world in a different way.

There are four kinds of negative thoughts to look out for, which spell out the word “B-L-U-E”:

Blaming myself

Assuming that bad things are all your fault

Looking for the bad news

Ignoring the good things about a situation

Unhappy guessing

Telling yourself bad things will come true

Exaggerating

Imagining a disaster or making something seem worse than it is

How Can I Help My Child Change B-L-U-E Thoughts?

When you notice that he or she is having negative or B-L-U-E thoughts, encourage your child to be like a detective and answer the following questions:

- What’s the evidence that this thought is true?
- Is there another way to look at the situation?
- What would I tell a friend?
- What if it is true – would that really be so bad?

Then help your child come up with a more realistic, TRUE thought!
