

The ERIC (Educational Resources Information Center) database is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education to provide access to educational-related literature. ERIC provides coverage of journal articles, conferences, meetings, government documents, theses, dissertations, reports, audiovisual media, bibliographies, directories, books and monographs. The database is updated monthly.

Access

- Access ERIC from the GOS-ICH Library website: <https://www.ucl.ac.uk/child-health/support-services/library/databases>
- Click on Eric (Educational Resources Information Center)
- Click on the UCL logo

Basic Search

- Type a word or phrase into the search box, e.g. inclusive education
- Click on  to search
- You may need to think about different ways of describing your topic in order to retrieve all relevant material from the database. You can link your keywords using AND or OR.

Boolean operators:

AND searches for records containing all search terms used – this will reduce the number of hits, but those found will be more relevant e.g. mainstreaming and autism

OR searches for records that contain any of the terms e.g. children or infants or adolescents – best used for synonyms

- There are other search tips that can help you to find all the relevant documents that are indexed in the ERIC:

Truncation To retrieve variations of a free text search term, use the truncation symbol , e.g. educ would retrieve educate, educates, educators, education etc.

Wild Card To find alternative prefixes to a word, or to find variant letters within a word, use the wild card symbol ?. The number of wild card symbols specifies the number of letters, e.g. wom?n finds women or woman. Ad??? finds added, adult, adopt, etc.

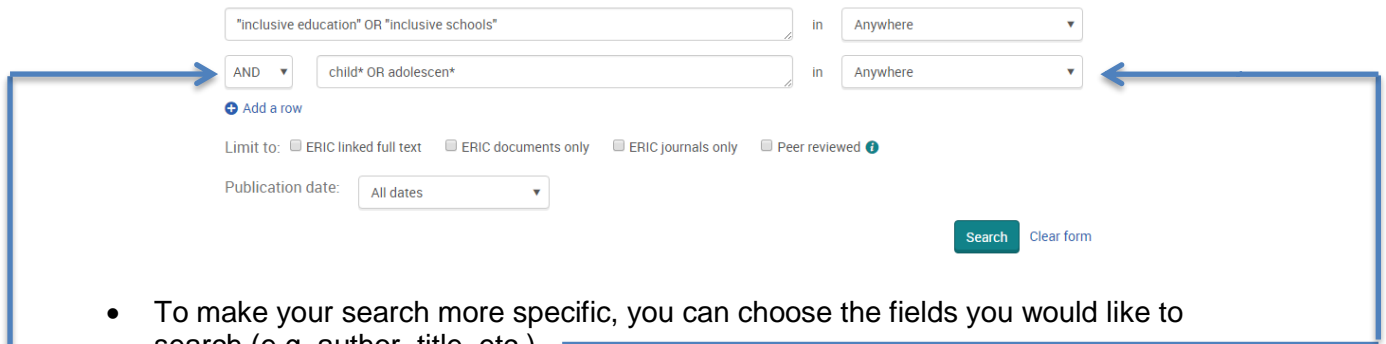

Phrase searching To specify a phrase within a search, surround it with double quotation marks e.g. “inclusive education”

Advanced Search

If you wish to use more than a couple of keywords, select Advanced Search.

Enter your keywords, or phrases, into one of more of the search boxes.

- To make your search more specific, you can choose the fields you would like to search (e.g. author, title, etc.)
- Choose to combine your terms with AND, OR or NOT
- Beneath the search boxes, select any limits you wish to apply (e.g. publication date range, English language only)
- Click on Search

Thesaurus Search

The thesaurus is a list of descriptors that are used to index materials in ERIC. These descriptors are used to organise ERIC by subject.

If you find a descriptor for your topic, you shouldn't need to search for variant terminology, or variant spellings. (E.g. a search for the descriptor "inclusive education" will also find material that mentions "inclusive schools".)

- Click on Thesaurus, above the search boxes on the Advanced Search screen
- Type in a key word or phrase, e.g. inclusive education, and click on Find

A list of keywords that match your topic will appear.

- Click in the check box next to the descriptor that matches your topic (If you have searched for 'inclusive education', you will need to click on the link to find the relevant subject heading, which is 'inclusion'.)
- Make sure the checkbox to the right of the descriptor (in the explode column) is also ticked, This will ensure all narrower terms are included in the search
- Click on Add to search

The descriptor that you selected will appear in the top search box on the Advanced Search screen.

Click on Thesaurus again to add additional descriptors to your search.

Recent Searches

Each search you conduct is listed on the Recent Searches page. From this screen you can combine your searches:

- Click on Recent Searches below the search box
- To combine your searches, type the set numbers of the searches you wish to combine into the search box, linked with AND or OR.

Displaying Results

Your search can be refined further from the Results screen. To the left of the screen, there are options to narrow the search by publication year, language, document type, etc. Once you make a selection, your results will be adjusted automatically.

To search within your results, scroll down to the bottom of the screen. Enter a keyword or phrase into the Search Within box and click on Search to find any of your results that contain that keyword or phrase.

To view articles that are similar in topic to any one of the results:

- Click on the title of the result you are interested in
- From the options to the right of the screen, click on Related items. You also have options to click on Documents with shared references, or Cited by.

Save or Export Your Results

Select the results you wish to save or export by clicking in the check boxes next to each result (or use the checkbox at the top of the list to select all results on the screen), then select from the options above the results list:

To save results within ERIC, click on Save and select Save to My Research - You will be prompted to create a My Research account. The results will be saved permanently within your account. To access these results from ERIC at a later date, click on the folder  (in the top right corner of the screen) and sign in.

Email - Send your results to one or more people. You can select a citation style.

Print - You can select a citation style.

Cite – Use this to copy the references, in your selected style, so that they can be pasted into a Word document.

Save – Use this option to export references to bibliographic management software, such as Endnote, Reference Manager, etc.

Save Search Strategies and Create Alerts

- Click on Recent Searches below the search box
- Click on Actions to the right of the search you wish to save and select Save Search
