MUSEUMS

(A) Museums containing artefacts from early AS burials

With the exception of the BM, Museums are listed under the name of the town in which they are situated, and where possible this alone identifies them.

If the Museum collection was obtained from three sites or less, the sites are stated. If a larger collection is strictly local, the provenances are not given; if it is not altogether local the fact is usually indicated.

GUIDE TO THE GAZETTEER

COUNTY

The English Counties containing known or possible AS burials are arranged alphabetically (list of abbreviations pp. 33-34). The one possible Scottish site, in West Lothian, is placed at the end.

SITE

Sites are listed alphabetically within counties, by the names most commonly applied to them and not necessarily by parishes (e.g. Bifrons K). In cases of doubt cross-references are given. Directional (e.g. North, Upper) and quantitative (e.g. Little) adjectives in place-names are ignored.

N.B.—The parish (and even perhaps the county) to which a site is assigned does not necessarily accord with the most recent boundaries, as it has proved impracticable to check every site. The map references should be used as the basis for siting, not the name given to the site.

Description of site

Sites may have 'inhumation', 'cremation' or 'mixed' burials.

If more than 3 burials are known or can be inferred on one site it is designated a 'cemetery', if less, 'burial' or 'burials'.

If the burials were made in a barrow the fact is indicated, and whether they were primary or secondary.

Two sites in Suffolk, Snape and Sutton Hoo, have 'ship burials', and this is also indicated.

A query ('?') indicates that although the site appears to be of the pagan AS period, its nature is in doubt.

'Doubtful' indicates that the age of the site is in doubt.

Some 'isolated finds' are listed, particularly in the more thinly populated areas, or if they are likely to be from an undiscovered burial.

Map references

First the number of the old OS 6" map is usually given, and then the National Grid reference to 6 figures. 'Area', or a four-figure reference indicate that the site is not precisely known.

The old OS County series 6" maps are fast being superseded by the NG sheets, the numbering being based on the NG value of the SW corner of the sheet. The heavy grid lines on the 1" map make up four 6" sheets, the quadrants being lettered NW, SW, NE, SE as before. For example, NG TL 833703 would fall on 6" sheet TL 87 NW.

Bibliography

This is given in the briefest form consistent with ease of reference; titles of articles, and names of their authors, are omitted. A list of abbreviations of book titles is given on pp. 31-32 and of periodicals on pp. 32-33.

Unpublished sources, of whatever kind and date, are listed after published sources.

The bibliography is in intention exhaustive, but does not normally include casual secondary references to the site, nor discussions of individual artefacts. In practice, secondary sources are therefore usually restricted to the lists in VCH and Brown (1915), IV, 627-813, and any county gazetteers.

'(Not consulted)' placed after a reference indicates that the compiler was unable to verify it, usually because no copy of the book could be found.

Museums

Museums, with the exception of the British Museum, are listed under the town in which they are situated (eg. Oxford, Ashmolean Museum), and where possible this alone identifies them.

Museums containing artefacts from AS burials are listed on pp. 25–27 and those containing skeletal material on pp. 27–28. With the exception of the BMNH the extant skeletal material held in the Museums is stated.

Account of the discovery

Dates and circumstances of discovery, and the nature of the objects found are stated; the emphasis is upon the burials rather than the artefacts. Where the available information is slight it is given in entirety; where a detailed report is accessible, its place of publication is indicated.

In order to condense the accounts as far as possible, frequent use has been made of abbreviations, even in quoted material (list p. 34). Numbers over one are given in figures, and the courtesy title Mr is omitted.

The compiler has not usually attempted to assess the age of the burials independently; suggestions as to the date are normally taken from the published sources, and may therefore need to be treated with caution in the light of more modern research.
