

PPI (patient and public involvement) workshop for biomedical researchers

Setting up and running a patient group for PPI in research

- What kind of group should I set up? What are the pros and cons of different groups?
- How do I enlist people to join the group?
- How do I keep people interested?
- How can I make sure the group has a positive impact on our research?

When: Monday, 10 September 2012, 9.30am-1.00pm

Where: Boardroom, The Heart Hospital, 16 Westmoreland Street, London W1G 8PH

How to book: contact Caroline Romain on Caroline.Romain@uclh.nhs.uk or Rosamund Yu on Rosamund.yu@ucl.ac.uk

NB This workshop only looks at the active involvement of patients in the research process. It does not look at how to recruit patients and volunteers to trials.

This workshop is run by the Joint Research Office which is a partnership between UCL, UCL Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust and Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust