

Diagram showing side-view of a stony deposit which has undergone solifluction. Note that the clasts are imbricated and dip upslope whilst their long axes are orientated in a downslope direction

Figure 1