

Linguistics Modules - Module Information Sheet

2018/19

1. General information

Module Code	PLIN0018	Title	Issues in Pragmatics				Credits	15
Module Tutor	Timothy Pritchard			Contact	t.pritchard@ucl.ac.uk
Other tutor(s)
Module available at the following levels
Level 4 UG		Level 5 UG		Level 6 UG	X	Level 7 UG		Level 7 PG	X
Module description
The course addresses current debates within the field of pragmatics from the interdisciplinary perspective of cognitive science, linguistics and the philosophy of language. The specific topics may vary from year to year, but will fall within the following areas: the linguistic underdeterminacy of speaker meaning, the semantics/ pragmatics interface, pragmatic processes contributing to truth-conditional content, minimalist versus contextualist semantics, the role of context and the role of speaker intentions, similarities and differences in the aims of semantic theories and communication theories, relevance theory, lexical pragmatics and the nature of word meaning, the role of pragmatics in the interpretation of specific kinds of texts (e.g. legal texts, literary texts).
Prerequisites	PLIN0010 (Pragmatic Theory) or equivalent
Timetable	https://timetable.ucl.ac.uk/tt/moduleTimet.do?firstReq=Y&moduleId=PLIN0018
Week by week summary
Lecture 1. Contextualism introduced. Three accounts of linguistic underdetermination: ambiguity, conversational implicatures, contextualism. The case of definite descriptions. Lecture 2. Polysemy Different types of polysemy. Underdetermination of word meaning. Processing polysemes. Lectures 3. Thin and rich word meanings. Under/overspecification and underdetermination. Word meanings as schemas needing enrichment; or as complexes from which selection is made; meaning eliminativism. Lecture 4. Insight from analogical cognition. Analogical cognition. Explaining extensions. Further evidence for word meanings as schemas. Lecture 5. Speaker intentions and the role of context. Speaker intentions and notions of context in semantics and pragmatics, particularly in the disambiguation and resolution of the reference of indexicals and demonstratives. Lecture 6: Alternatives to contextualism: Semantic minimalism. Motivating semantic minimalism. Context shifting arguments. Minimalist responses to apparent underdetermination. Lecture 7: The miracle of communication. Can contextualism explain communication? Minimal propositions and speech act pluralism. Lecture 8: Unarticulated constituents and indexicalism. The indexicalist challenge: does contextualism over-generate meanings? Free pragmatic effects and unarticulated constituents. The indexicalist alternative. Lecture 9: Indexicalism continued. Contextualist responses to the challenge from indexicalism. Lecture 10: The (in)effability of meaning. Can we say what we mean? The principles of expressibility.

Information for students on other programmes and Affiliate/intercollegiate students:

If you want to take this module, you should select it on Portico as usual. Any general queries about taking the module can be addressed to Alexa Richardson: enquiries-linguistics@pals.ucl.ac.uk.

2. TeachingTeaching methods and tutorial/lab arrangements

One 1-hour lecture and one 1-hour backup class per week.
Backup size: up to about 12 students

Communication

Students should communicate with Tim or the backup tutor by email or via moodle.
We'll respond as soon as we can (and no later than 3 working days)

Workload

As well as attending the lectures and backups, students are expected to spend an average of 8 hours per week in term time reading and thinking for the course, and a further 40 hours on researching and writing the essay(s).

Core textsLibraries and other resources

Full bibliographic details of recommended readings for classes and coursework will be given on the relevant handouts, with links to online versions.

Additional informationLate work and extenuating circumstances

Any requests for extensions to deadlines, or for extenuating circumstances to be taken into consideration by examiners, should be made by completing the relevant form. Instructions are available on the Moodle page for this module, under the Assessment tab. No extensions or special consideration can be given outside of this process, and there is a grading penalty for late submission of coursework. Again, information about this policy can be found on the course Moodle page, under the 'Assessment' tab.

Recording

Lectures for this module are recorded via the UCL Lecturecast system, and a link to recordings will be made available via the Moodle page for this module. Please note that recordings can fail for a number of reasons.

4. Types of feedback

Types of feedback students on this module can expect to receive	This type of feedback is provided (X)
Generic tutor feedback
Oral feedback is given to the whole class (eg this may be about coursework, an in-class or online task)
Electronic feedback to the whole group (eg see oral feedback above)
Printed feedback to the whole group (eg answers to an exercise done in class, feedback relating to general performance on coursework or a task etc)
Coverage of topics in class which have been raised by members of the class (eg in areas where students ask for clarification/elaboration, these topics are addressed in class)	X
Electronic responses to the whole group via the VLE or via email (eg sending replies to individual queries to the whole group)	X
Other generic tutor feedback (please give details)
Automated feedback
Tests / quizzes within VLE These are tests which do not count towards the module mark, but serve to inform students of how well they are understanding materials taught.
Personal Response Systems used within class (eg to test that students understand a concept, to survey which topics students would like elaborated)
Other automated feedback (please give details)
Specific, targeted tutor feedback
Oral responses within class (eg demonstrators talking to students in lab, stats and computing classes)	X
Oral responses outside class (eg students are invited to telephone or meet with module staff with individual queries regarding topics taught)
Electronic responses to queries from individual students are provided (as above)	X
Summative comments on coursework (eg handwritten feedback at the end of a written assessment which counts towards the module mark)	X
On-script comments in the body of individual summative coursework	X
Indication of achievement against set marking criteria (eg for an individual essay or a lab report)
Feedback using a standard feedback form (eg essay feedback form or lab marking forms)
Oral feedback on coursework talking to individual students about their coursework on the phone or in person, this could be summative points or specific comments on parts of the essay / lab report / project
Electronic feedback on coursework This could be via email or on a VLE (eg using Gradebook on Moodle)	X
Other specific, targeted tutor feedback (please give details)
Feedback from people other than module staff
Peer feedback: fellow students commenting on/marking each other's work, or working together on a task (eg group work providing students with feedback on their ideas/understanding)
Self-feedback (eg students evaluating their own coursework, worksheet answers, etc)
Feedback from seminar tutors Students may receive feedback on their understanding of topics/answers to queries/feedback on coursework from their tutor (eg poster, Research Project presentations etc)
Other feedback from those not teaching module (please give details)
Feedback related to examinations
A mock examination is given to help students prepare for the final exam
Marks for the previous year provided online , with a breakdown of marks for individual questions

Samples of real student work , such as coursework, exam essays, and projects from previous students on the module.
Other exam-related feedback (please give details)

5. Specific transferable skills (categorised into skill areas)

Transferable students on this module can expect to develop
Academic
Learning Actively - Able to approach learning as an active agent, taking responsibility for the process and outcomes	X
Analysing Data - Able to filter and organise information to develop an argument and work toward a conclusion, applying numerical analysis where appropriate	X
Thinking Critically - Able to consider claims made against the evidence available and to develop one's own view systematically	X
Using Sources - Able to locate and use appropriate books, journals, websites and other sources to gather relevant data	X
Solving Problems - Able to use systematic approaches to overcome difficulties in producing a desired outcome
Managing Projects - Able to plan a coordinated set of tasks and enact over time to produce a substantial result
Self-management
Reflecting on Learning - Able to review dispassionately one's approaches to learning and the outcomes and progressively improve the process.	X
Managing Time - Able to prioritise tasks and commitments to achieve optimum results in a designated timeframe	X
Being Creative / Innovative - Able to generate and apply original approaches to tasks and problems and produce improved outcomes
Assessing Oneself - Able to identify one's own strengths, weaknesses, progress made and action needed to improve effectiveness	X
Being Independent - Able to work at own initiative with minimal supervision, taking responsibility for action and outcomes	X
Managing Resources - Able to allocate and conserve funds and other resources on a day to day basis and to support projects
Communication
Writing - Able to communicate in textual forms (essays, reports, journal entries, web pages etc.) in an appropriate style with a clear narrative flow	X
Listening - Able to hear and appreciate the content, background and purpose of what someone else is communicating to you	X
Using Information Technology - Able to use digital technology for managing information and to mediate communication for learning and other purposes	X
Presenting - Able to speak to an audience, using visual aids as appropriate and respond to questions
Communicating globally - Able to understand and manage factors affecting communication across cultures, including learning other languages
Planning and making decisions - Able to identify steps needed to work towards goals and communicate them, including means of monitoring progress
Working with others
Working in teams - Able to co-operate with others, to contribute your strengths and learn from theirs with a common purpose
Negotiating - Able to respect the needs and interests of others when they differ from your own and to find common ground
