

UCLP-Primrose: Research

Healthcare teams are working together to deliver a care service that aims to support more patients with severe mental illness to receive their physical health check and provide follow up care when needed. This is a service called UCLP-Primrose.

A team of researchers based at University College London (UCL) and Bradford's Improvement Academy are evaluating UCLP-Primrose. We are analysing patient data (such as the number of patients invited to a health check) and we will interview some patients about their experiences.

During your health check you will have been asked if you are happy for your data to be used in this service evaluation (your data will be made anonymous), and your answer noted. You can change your response at any time and saying no will not impact your care.

If you are uncertain about saying yes or no, you may want to discuss it with a family member, another service user, or someone in your care team.

Or contact the researcher Dr Philippa Shaw (UCL) by email Philippa.shaw@ucl.ac.uk or phone 02031084980.

UCLP-Primrose: Research

Healthcare teams are working together to deliver a care service that aims to support more patients with severe mental illness to receive their physical health check and provide follow up care when needed. This is a service called UCLP-Primrose.

A team of researchers based at University College London (UCL) and Bradford's Improvement Academy are evaluating UCLP-Primrose. We are analysing patient data (such as the number of patients invited to a health check) and we will interview some patients about their experiences.

During your health check you will have been asked if you are happy for your data to be used in this service evaluation (your data will be made anonymous), and your answer noted. You can change your response at any time and saying no will not impact your care.

If you are uncertain about saying yes or no, you may want to discuss it with a family member, another service user, or someone in your care team.

Or contact the researcher Dr Philippa Shaw (UCL) by email Philippa.shaw@ucl.ac.uk or phone 02031084980

