

UCL Psychoanalytic Conference

The Repression and Abandonment of Oedipus: The Role of the Oedipal Situation in Mental Distress and Disorder

Guidelines for Parallel Paper Submissions

1. The deadline to submit abstracts is 12:00 (GMT), Friday 14 September 2018
2. The abstract should be no more than one side of A4
3. Include a short biography (approximately a paragraph) and institutional affiliation
4. Where your paper's subject matter indicates, if possible it should include detailed clinical material. We are aware of the anxieties relating to confidentiality so where possible, authors should bear in mind that their choice of title and the content of the abstract should contain no identifiable material or clues to patient identity. We will also review the abstract to ensure that there is no patient identifiable material. Please also bear in mind when selecting clinical material that any of the conference delegates may attend the session
5. Please be aware that the abstract will also be placed on the conference website in advance of the conference
6. You will hear if your abstract has been accepted by Friday 5 October 2018
7. Please note that presenters should have something to distribute to attendees on the day of the conference. Copies of the full paper, or fuller version of the abstract to be used as a handout, should be sent to the conference organisers by Friday 2 November 2018. Otherwise, bring enough copies of your hand-out to be distributed to your audience on the day
8. Please note that presenters all need to submit a copy of their full paper to the conference director, David Taylor, ahead of the conference
9. Please note that parallel paper presenters still need to register and to pay for a conference ticket
10. The length of each parallel paper session is 90 minutes; at least 30 minutes of this is set aside for discussion with your audience
