

Crafting the Future of Qualitative Health Research in a Changing World

4th Qualitative Health Research Network (QHRN) Conference, Friday 22 March 2019, Radisson Blu Portman Hotel, London, UK

| Time | Session | | |
|---------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 8.30 – 9.15 | Registration Open | | |
| 9.15 - 9.30 | Opening ceremony | | |
| 9.30 – 10.30 | KEYNOTE LECTURE Professor Glenn Robert King's College London, UK From 'bodies on the pavement' to the participatory Zeitgeist: shaping change in healthcare organisations | | |
| 10.30 – 11.00 | POSTER BUZZER ROUND* | | |
| 11.00 – 11.30 | REFRESHMENTS AND POSTER VIEWING | | |
| 11.30 – 13.00 | Oral Presentations | | |
| | Montague Global Health | Berkeley Critical Perspectives and Social Theory | Ballroom Participatory Research |
| | Qualitative research for large-scale sustainable impact on health in low-resource settings (Rebecca King: University Of Leeds, UK) | The Hospital Is No Longer an Option: A Case Study of Pregnant Women Going Against Medical Advice (Lianne Holten: AVAG/APH/Amsterdam UMC) | Democratising the research process: reflections on the co-production of focus groups (Jean Ledger: University College London, UK and Raj Mehta: CLAHRC North Thames, UK) |

| | | | |
|---------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| | "Free Health/Free Die": Investigating women's health in post-Ebola rural Sierra Leone (Maren Lujan: Independent, USA) | Re-thinking mental health through feeling: emotion centred research about family with LGBTQ+ youth (Rachael Eastham: Lancaster University, UK) | Rules of engagement: ethics issues in participatory research (Sonia Bussu: Manchester Metropolitan University, UK and Mirza Lalani: University College London, UK) |
| | Mainstreaming Qualitative Longitudinal Research and Re-thinking Causality in a Global Health Context (Jayne Webster: London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, UK) | 'It's not another diet': Bariatric Dietitians' alternative talk about food and the body (Hilla Nehushtan: Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel) | Going native in order to make a difference? Tensions of longitudinal participatory research (Roman Kislov: The University of Manchester, UK) |
| | Views of key stakeholders in Saudi Arabia on protective sexual health strategies (Nour Horanieh: London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, UK) | Community Health Workers: Solving Health Issues and Improving Wellbeing (Ryan Logan: University of South Florida, USA) | Building sustainable partnerships with local researchers for qualitative health systems research (Amrit Virk: University of Leeds, UK) |
| | Competing Expectations: Advanced care planning from the perspectives of doctors and nurses in the South-East Asian context (Priya Lall: Queen Mary University of London, UK) | Integrating new biomedical technologies in IVF treatment: the case of time-lapse imaging (Manuela Perrotta and Alina Geampana: Queen Mary University of London, UK) | Rare but Still Heard: How innovative methods can enhance research inclusion (Kathy McKay: Tavistock & Portman NHS Foundation Trust, UK) |
| | PREVENT Dissent: Implications of New Counter-terrorism Duty on Practitioner Freedom of Conscience (Tarek Younis: University College London, UK) | | Engaging displaced people in artistic and cultural activities using participatory action research (Linda Thomson: University College London, UK) |
| 13.00 – 14.00 | LUNCH AND POSTER VIEWING | | |

| | | | | Oral Presentations | | | | | |
|---------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|--|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|-------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|--|
| | | | | Montague | Ballroom | Berkeley | | | |
| | | | | Innovative Research Methods | Healthcare Improvement and Knowledge Mobilisation | Ethnographic Encounters | | | |
| 14.00 – 15.15 | Breaking the Gold Standard: Qualitative Methods for Trials of Complex Health Interventions (Jenevieve Mannell: University College London, UK) | | | Patient experience in acute care settings: Making sense of the data or making data of the sense? (Jennifer Jones: University of Leicester, UK) | | | Neoliberal policy reforms & biomedical residualism in community mental health practice in England (Rich Moth: Liverpool Hope University, UK) | | |
| | Reflections on dyadic research in healthcare (Angela Sweeney: St George's University of London, UK and Billie Lever-Taylor: University College London, UK) | | | The Five 'Es' of Holistic Care for Adolescents and Young Adults with Cancer (Sarah Lea: University College London Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust, UK) | | | Exploring the nature of home care for people living with dementia through ethnographic observations (Monica Leverton: University College London, UK) | | |
| | Understanding parental needs of a health condition from an internet forum (Carmel Capewell: Oxford Brookes University, UK) | | | Using qualitative synthesis data to inform interventions in palliative care: a multilevel approach (Megan Armstrong: University College London, UK) | | | A web-based ethnographic study of psychostimulant use: a novel approach for public health research (Caroline Robitaille: University of Montreal, Canada) | | |
| | "Drowning in data!" Designing a novel approach to longitudinal qualitative analysis. (Lesley Ward: University of Oxford, UK) | | | Optimal involvement of patients in the Morbidity and Mortality meeting (OPTIMA study) (Britt Myren: Radboud University Medical Center, The Netherlands) | | | Therapeutic itineraries and childhood cancer in Argentina: Peripheral perspectives (Eugenia Brage: University of Buenos Aires, Argentina) | | |
| | (Intersectional) Stigma Among Sexual Assault Survivors Seeking Formal Support: An Analysis of Reddit (Stephanie Lanthier: University of Toronto & Women's College Research Institute, Canada) | | | Knowledge-to-Action: Promoting best practices for maternal opioid use (Tracy Nichols: University of North Carolina Greensboro, US) | | | Evolving ethnographic sensibilities: using Actor-Network Theory in health services research (Amit Desai: King's College London, UK) | | |
| | | | | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | | | | |

| | |
|------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 15.15 – 15.45 | REFRESHMENTS AND POSTER VIEWING |
| 15.45 – 17.00 | SYMPOSIUM Convenor: Professor Virginia Braun The University of Auckland, New Zealand More than just a silly story: the exciting potential of Story Completion for qualitative health research Qualitative story completion: an innovative method with exciting potential for health research Naomi Moller, The Open University, UK Imagining “healthy eating:” Using story completion to understand everyday meaning-making Virginia Braun, The University of Auckland, New Zealand Exploring narratives of physical activity and disability using story completion Toni Williams, Leeds Beckett University, UK Using story completion tasks to explore perceptions about mental health in a work context Irmgard Tischner, TH Deggendorf, Germany Naomi Moller, The Open University, UK |
| 17.00 – 17.15 | Closing ceremony |

*7 poster presenters have been additionally invited to give a 4 minute presentation of their work. If you accepted a poster presentation but did not receive an additional email to invite you to give a short oral presentation, a paper poster is all that is required.

Funded by Wellcome Trust

Supported by:

