

HOW MUCH POWER DOES A REFRIGERATOR USE

#WATCHINGYOU
GROUP EXHIBITION

December 11-22

524W19

Private View: December 11, 6-10pm

RSVP

Hosted By

10011

"For the eye altering, alters all" - William Blake

10011 is pleased to present Watching You, a group exhibition exploring the unsettling relationship between the unannounced, invisible observer and the subject.

Featured work:

Kohei Yoshiyuki

Thomson & Craighead

Cynthia Daignault

Vanessa Hodgkinson

Ai Weiwei

Cindy Sherman

Enxuto & Love

Ernesto Caivano

*special commission by James Bridle

curated by Julie Solovyeva and Katya Valevich

Through self-documentation, self-censorship and surveillance, Watching You identifies issues of security, fetishized observation, and the psychological implications of watching/being watched. The artists retain distance from the individual subject, reflecting the mechanical and digital sensibilities of image-making and perception.

Watching You addresses themes of desire and control over oneself and others. Between selfies and CCTV, smartphones and Google, we are gridlocked in algorithmic visualizations of data. We instigate power, desire, and pleasure, drawing out a trajectory for the impact of technologies upon consciousness.

From December 11-22, you are invited to engage and reflect on suspect acts of observation inside a space that is itself lived in.

The space is open 24/7 by appointment only.

Please contact: Katya Valevich at katya.valevich@gmail.com
Julie Solovyeva at jsolovyeva@me.com