Received

80.1 An oral report from Professor Michael Arthur, President and Provost.

80A Appointment of Vice-Provost (International)

Reported

80A.1 Dame Nicola Brewer had been appointed Vice-Provost (International) with effect from 7 May 2014. Dame Nicola was currently a senior diplomat at the Foreign & Commonwealth Office, and had been the British High Commissioner to South Africa until last year. She was also the founding CEO and a Commissioner of the Equality and Human Rights Commission.

80B.1 Professor Nick Brook, currently Head of the School of Physics at the University of Bristol, had been appointed Dean of the Faculty of Mathematical and Physical Sciences with effect from 1 September 2014, in succession to Professor Richard Catlow.

80C UCL 2034: The Next 20 Years
[Council Minute 57D, 2013-14]

Reported

80C.1 The consultation process on the UCL 2034 strategy was under way. The strategy would be further discussed at a meeting of the Academic Board on 14 May, and it was expected that a revised version would be submitted to the Council meeting on 8 July 2014.

80D Industrial disputes
[Council Minute 57B, 2013-14]

Reported

80D.1 The UCU was giving consideration to calling for a marking boycott in relation to the 2013 pay claim, although there was reason to hope that industrial action could still be avoided.
80E HEFCE Funding letter
[Council Minute 57A, 2013-14]

Reported

80E.1 As reported to the Council meeting of 11 February 2014 [Council Minute 57A, 2013-14], the annual funding letter from the Department for Business, Innovation and Skills had confirmed a net reduction of £45m on the 2014-15 recurrent teaching grant for the sector. It had since been confirmed that the cut would be backdated, resulting in a retrospective reduction in HEFCE funding to UCL of £126,000 for 2012-13 and £813,000 for the current year. UCL’s teaching grant for 2014-15 would be cut by £5.1m, with a slight increase in the research grant of £1.2m; this was less than the projected cut. The Government’s plans to create an additional 30,000 full-time undergraduate places in 2014/15, with no additional funding, had also been confirmed.

80F Budget

Reported

80F.1 The Provost drew attention to two elements of the Chancellor’s 2014 budget announcement on 19 March 2014: a pledge to invest £42m over the next five years to create the Alan Turing Big Data Institute, and an additional £106m over the same period for the establishment of 20 additional Centres for Doctoral Training (CDTs).

81 FINANCIAL UPDATE

Received

81.1 APPENDIX C 4/63 (13-14) – the financial results for the half year to end January 2014, and the forecast for the full year 2013-14.

81.2 An oral report from Mr Phil Harding, Director of Finance and Business Affairs.

Reported

81.3 The financial performance to date was marginally ahead of budget, but the full year forecast currently showed a £2.7m shortfall on the budgeted surplus of £30.2m. While the operating surplus position was satisfactory, with a favourable variance of £2.8m at the half year and £1.4m at the full year, a range of capital and other exceptional items had had a significant negative impact on the full year forecast.

81.4 The anticipated receipt of increased HEFCE funding in respect of additional student numbers had not been forthcoming, due to the retrospective imposition of reductions in the teaching grant [see Minute 80E.1 above]. Measures were being introduced to address the projected shortfall in the current year, including: agreeing limits on equipment expenditure with faculties; reviewing the rate of overhead recovery on research contracts; and working to bring the projected £1m overspend in Professional Services back within budget. Options for delaying staff recruitment were also being investigated. SLMS was showing a significant adverse variance but there was reason to hope that a good proportion of this could be recovered.

Discussion

81.5 The Treasurer reported that the Finance Committee had discussed the draft 2014-15 budget at its meeting on 11 March, against the background of the ten-year Estates and Funding Strategy and the ambition to increase the surplus to £50m over the next three years. In that context it was important to keep the projections for the current year in perspective against the longer term projected performance.

81.6 The Director of Finance and Business Affairs confirmed that work was being undertaken to benchmark UCL against other HEIs. He anticipated that a progress report would be presented to the Finance Committee meeting of 10 June 2014.

81.7 Council members enquired after the reasons behind the projected shortfall in SLMS’ contribution target. SLMS has not yet made sufficient progress with the achievement of savings identified when the budget was set; it was also the School most heavily affected by low levels of research overhead recovery.

81.8 In response to questions on the data relating to capital assets, it was confirmed that: the Archway campus had been sold for £23m (shared with Middlesex University), with potential for overage depending on the obtaining of planning consent; Clifford Pugh House was still on the market; and that the expenditure of £8.9m against a budget of £4.9m on 132 and 140 Hampstead Road had been the result of a decision, taken after the budget had been agreed, to use the property as decant space for staff displaced by the refurbishment of Wates House.

81.9 The difficulty of establishing greater financial control of research overheads was principally due to the shifting nature of the mix of research activity. Staff recruited ahead of the REF had not generated research income as quickly as had been projected, and there had been delays in securing the transfer of some existing research income. Although academic staff were encouraged to focus their applications on those funding bodies awarding the highest rate of overheads, other sources of research income (for example the EU) were nevertheless of vital importance.

This item appeared on the Council agenda for formal approval but requests had been received from two members of Council for the matter to be raised for discussion.

Discussion

Council was advised of a UCLU campaign calling for the introduction of fixed postgraduate and international student fees, set in advance for the duration of a student’s course. A student member reported that the current system of annual inflationary increases was a source of anxiety for many students.

It was reported that options were being examined to address UCLU’s concerns, although a move to fixed fees would bring with it additional costs and complexity. The attractions of a fixed fee level to overseas governments were noted. Council also noted the difficulty caused to international students by fluctuations in the exchange rate.

A Council member queried the application of inflation to student fees but not to staff salaries. The Provost noted that once the cost of promotions, increments and merit awards were taken into account, UCL’s payroll costs were increasing by about 4% per annum, and that inflationary increases were not applied to most other major income streams.
