

COUNTDOWN TO UCL

UCL

Be part of UCL Students' community

CORONAVIRUS FAQs - We're committed to making sure you can receive a world-class education and student experience in September, and that you can do so safely and with the flexibility you need. Check our coronavirus FAQs regularly for all the latest on how we're doing this.

Dear `${Contacts.First Name}`,

In this fifth issue of the Countdown to UCL, we'll be introducing you to Students' Union UCL, your representative body and home to clubs and societies, support services, spaces for you and much more. Welcome to your Students' Union – where community happens.

The Countdown will be taking a little break for the next few weeks and our next issue will be on 14 August. In the meantime, you can carry on preparing for your time at UCL by accessing all our Countdown to UCL content here.

Students' Union UCL

This week we have Students' Union UCL taking over your Countdown to UCL. They'll be giving you insights into who they are, the support they can offer you, and the many ways in which you can get involved!

Visit the Students' Union section of the Countdown to UCL blog.

Have your say!

UCL Students' Union is working with the Institute of Education to ensure that every student is represented and has a voice in the way that the university works. Course Representatives will be your eyes, ears, and voice and will attend IOE and UCL committee meetings to represent the student view. Find out about how you can get involved.

Welcome to your Students' Union

Our friends over in the Students' Union UCL tell you all about how the Students' Union works and all the ways you can get involved once you start university. Read on.

What has the Union got to offer postgrads?

The Union is for everyone, not just undergrads. Find out how UCL's SU is here for our postgrad community. Find out more.

7 faces of Students' Union UCL

Many people contribute to the day-to-day running of the Students' Union. Here are seven of the faces you'll most likely come into contact with once you start your studies at UCL.
